Examiner's Comments

Apparently, Applicant disagrees with the spelling of the term "dewatering" as it appears in the last Office Action, as indicated by the use of the "[sic]" notation. Should Applicant now prefer an alternative spelling of this term, Applicant may submit a substitute specification, to amend all occurrences of this term, which appears throughout the specification, beginning in the title. Additionally, it is noted that the Examiner used the term "enabled," and not "enable" as Applicant's quotation of the Examiner's statement, indicates. Finally, and to clarify the record, contrary to Applicant's remarks appearing at page 7, line 12 of Applicant's Response, no art rejections were made in the last Office Action.
